

KABA

resource guide

The Kensington & Allegheny Business Association is managed by Impact Services Corporation.

What is KABA?

The Kensington & Allegheny Business Association is an organization of local business owners and managers. We work together to support local businesses, attract more customers to K&A, promote economic growth, and encourage community involvement. KABA is managed by Impact Services, a local community action organization.

KABA continues to grow, adding seven new members in 2021. If you have not yet joined KABA, let's connect and see how we can best serve your business.

What we do:

$100K

KABA has helped business owners secure over $100,000 in grants to support their storefronts and operations.

100

In the last two years, KABA has helped get 100 security cameras installed throughout Kensington.

- Hold monthly meetings with business owners
- Provide corridor cleaning along Kensington Ave. and Allegheny Ave.
- Sponsor the annual Spring Sprint cleanup
- Maintain relationships with local organizations, authorities, and service providers
- Connect business owners to available resources
- Help businesses access funds to improve storefronts and expand their businesses
- Maintain a list of available properties for interested investors

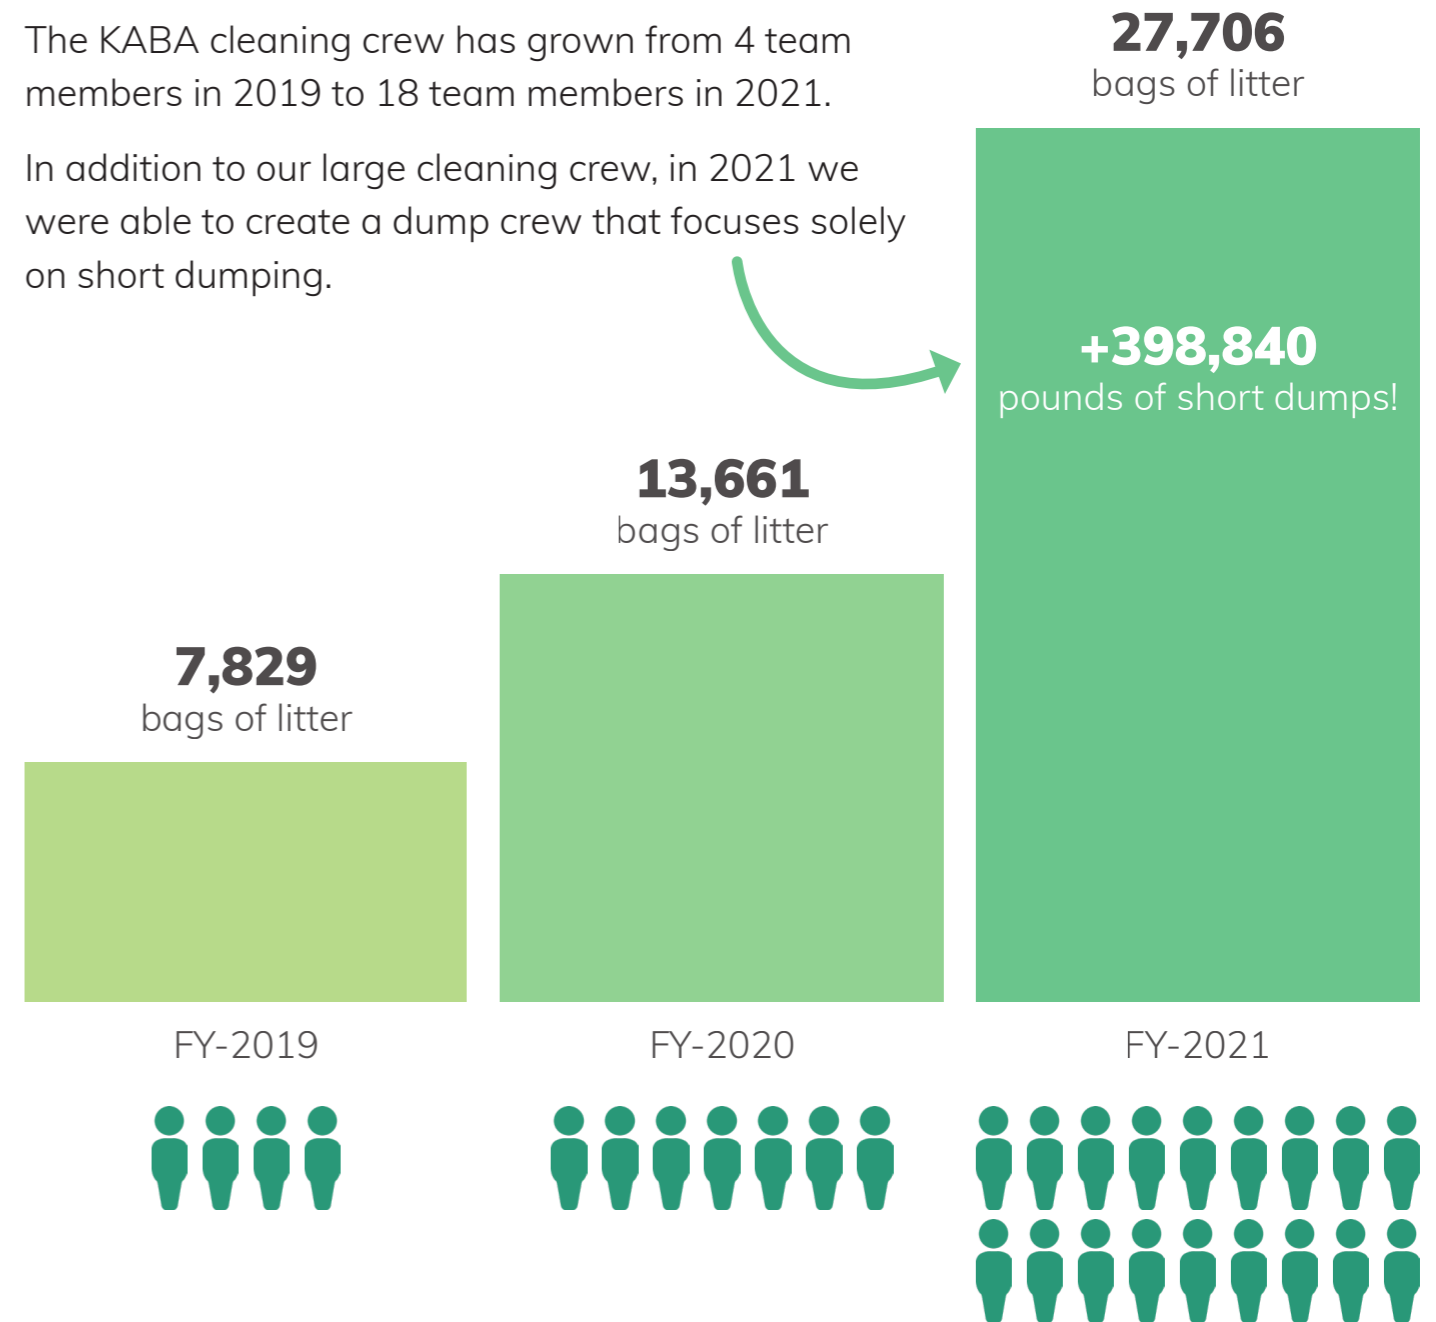

Where we clean:

- Red Zone - 80% of our time is spent in this zone
- Orange Zone - 10% of our time is spent in this zone
- Yellow Zone - 9% of our time is spent in this zone

Our impact:

The KABA cleaning crew has grown from 4 team members in 2019 to 18 team members in 2021.

In addition to our large cleaning crew, in 2021 we were able to create a dump crew that focuses solely on short dumping.

Resource Guide

This resource guide includes organizations that offer classes, training, consulting, legal assistance, or lending for small business owners to help manage or grow your business. This project was possible with the support of LISC Philadelphia, PHL Taking Care of Business, and the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

THE CAPITAL YOU NEED FOR THE BUSINESS YOU LOVE

You love your business, and PIDC loves helping businesses grow. That's why we offer local companies the capital needed to grow their footprints or take on bigger contracts, even if they've been turned down.

Small Business Lending

Small business loans are available through commercial banks, credit unions, CDFIs, online lenders, angel groups, and microlenders.

A commercial bank is a for-profit institution, often times traded on the stock market. They are owned by shareholders and look to turn a profit for those shareholders.

Online lending is a loan that's not directly from a traditional bank, is accessible online, and can sometimes be processed more quickly than through a bank.

A credit union is a financial cooperative, owned by the members who have deposits at the bank. A credit union is created for the benefit of its members.

An angel investor is an individual or group that offers your business the capital needed in exchange for equity (ownership stake in your company).

CDFIs are private financial institutions that are dedicated to delivering responsible and affordable lending to help people join the economic mainstream.

Microlending is an innovation made possible by technology, where individuals are able to lend money to borrowers who might have limited access to credit.

Challenge

More than four out of five businesses were denied financing from banks big and small in 2020. Small businesses are more likely than their larger counterparts to confront financial and operational issues such as lack of collateral, insufficient credit, large debt, or low income.

Solution

This resource guide offers information about traditional and non-traditional lenders to help maximize your ability to find funding for your small business.
